

Work Based Learning/Vocational Training

Through Work-Based Learning, participants engage in hands-on job training to develop essential employability skills. They participate daily at a variety of community job training sites, where real-world experiences reinforce workplace expectations and responsibilities. At each site, participants work alongside a D120 Transition Center employment specialist who provides guidance and support in building both technical (hard skills) and interpersonal (soft) skills, helping them prepare for successful employment.
